

I am so sick of hearing what I'm allowed to listen to and what I'm not. If I can buy the New York Times and have it delivered to my house (and view those adverts), I should be able to listen to what radio and which TV channels I want as long as I'm willing to pay for it.

It's seriously that plain and simple. Print, internet, tv, and radio all sell advertising from local and national markets. I can have any newspaper/magazine delivered to my house. Why can't I do the same for radio and TV?

It's a double standard.
